

A Look at Divorce in Washington & Pierce County

Not every marriage is "Till death do us part." Let us take a look at some of the divorce statistics you can find in Tacoma, Pierce County, and the state of Washington.

○ In Washington, it doesn't matter why your marriage ended - all divorces are "no fault" divorces.

○ If you are considering divorce in Washington State, then here are three basic things you will need to know.

○ Washington is a "no-fault" state. None of the courts will determine which spouse is at fault. Only one spouse has to say and prove that the marriage is "irretrievably broken."

○ Washington is a "community property" state. All the property acquired during the marriage is subject to division between both of the spouses. This applies to debt, as well.

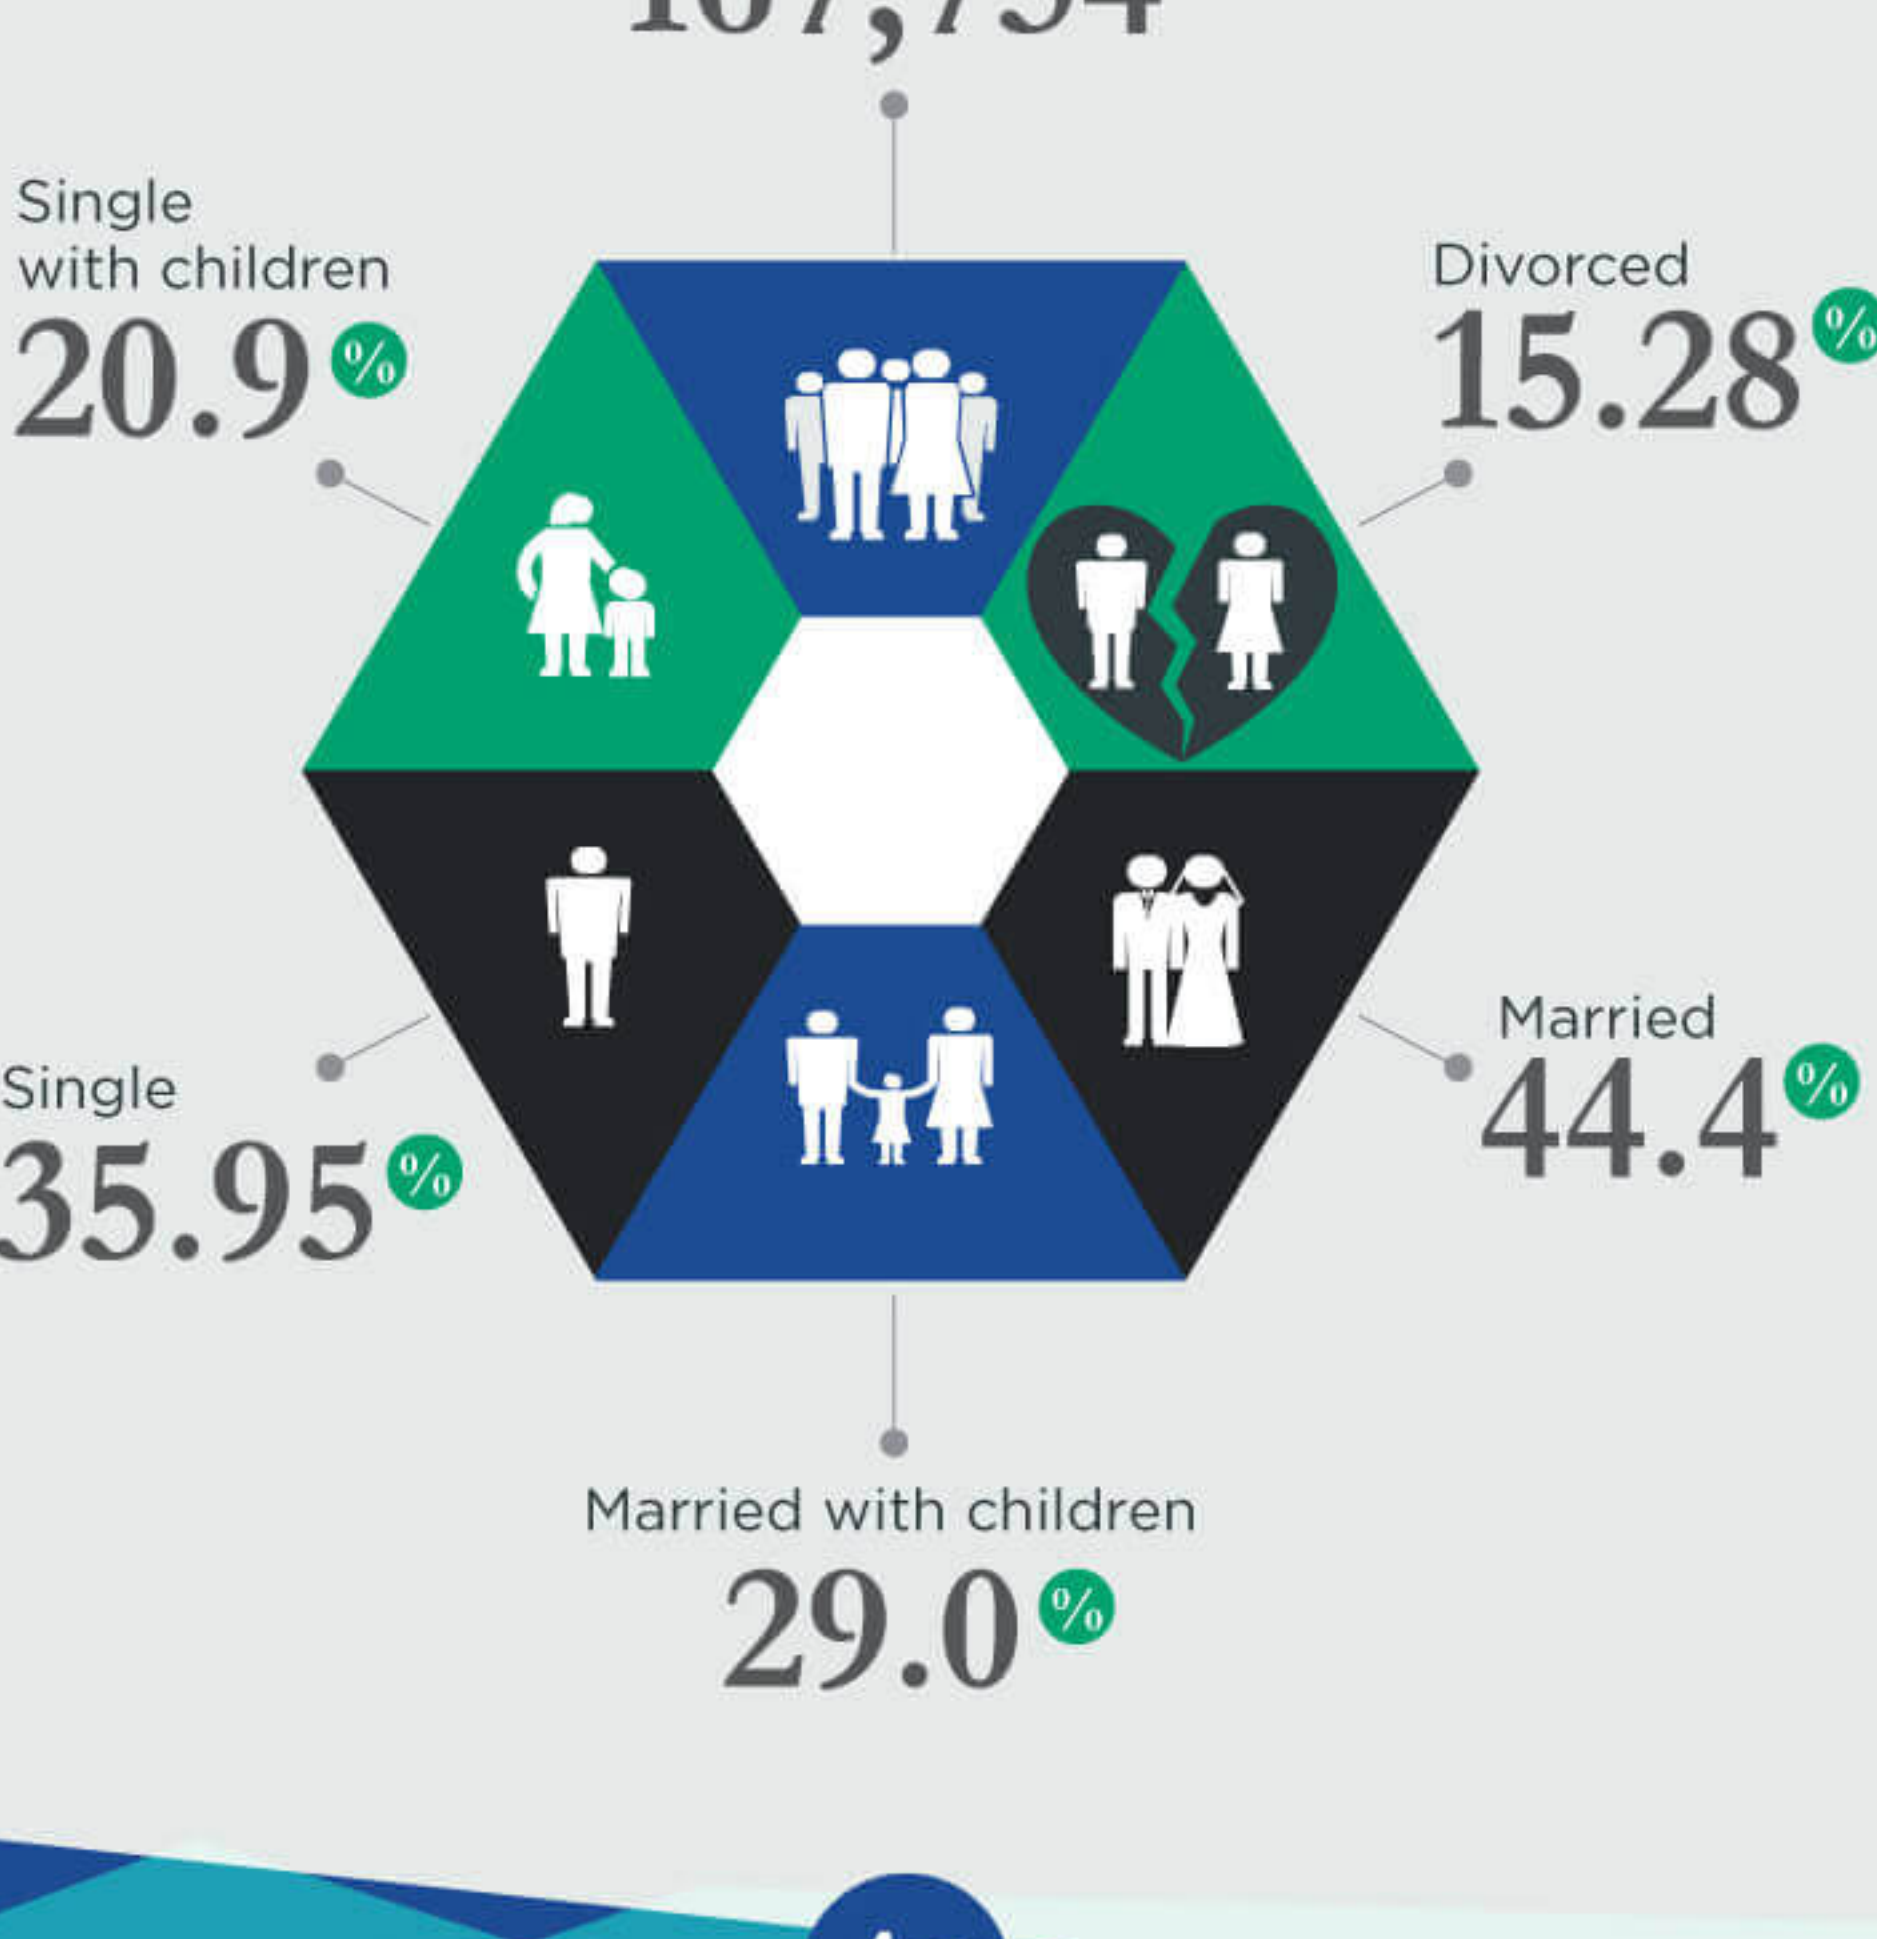

○ Washington is also a "fair and equitable" state. All the property and liabilities are divided into a "fair and equitable" manner, which doesn't always mean property and liabilities are divided "50/50".
